DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Claims 11-16 have been withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected inventions, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in Paper No. 6.

Drawings

New formal drawings are required in this application because of the reasons cited on attached form PTO-948. Applicant is advised to employ the services of a competent patent draftsman outside the Office, as the Patent and Trademark Office no longer prepares new drawings. The corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 19 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Bingold (US 5398383).

Bingold (figure 1) teaches a disposable handcuff comprising two coiled toothed straps 14, 16 and a two slot, toothed socket clasp 21 at about the midpoint of the straps.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 17 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Robinson (US 5443155) in view of Geisinger (US 5193254).

Robinson (figure 9) teaches package structure for a cuff including a single coiled strap 106 with an enlarged socket at one end with an opening therein to receive the strap end. The difference is that the end of the strap is not secured in the enlarged socket, but extends through it freely. However, Geisinger (figures 1, 12, 14, 15) teaches that as an alternative to having the two straps secured to each other with an intermediate structure, it is well known to provide the enlarged socket heads with pawls 3m, 3n so as to engage the strap ends together while providing the restraining function as shown in figure 14 so as to have simpler construction with fewer parts, a beneficial result with cost savings. It would have been obvious to modify the straps of Robinson so that the socket clasp has pawls therein so as to secure the end of the strap in view of Geisinger (figures 1, 12, 14, 15) teaching that as an alternative to having the two straps secured to each other with an intermediate structure, it is well known to provide the enlarged socket heads with pawls 3m, 3n so as to engage the strap ends together while providing the restraining function as shown in figure 14 so as to have simpler construction with fewer parts so that the package will be simpler and smaller while maintaining the coiled structure of Robinson, a beneficial result with cost savings.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-10 allowed.

Claims 18 and 19 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 17 and 19 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
